COTTON COMPANIES' APPEAL. Why Danielsonville and Williamsville Corporations Consider Assessments

The Danielsonville Cotton company and the Williamsville Manufacturing and the Williamsville Manufacturing company appealed from the assessment fixed on their respective properties by the board of assessors, coming before the board of relief with a request for a reduction. One of the members of the board of relief states that the board voted unanimously not to take any action on the appeal of the Williamsville company, as their list was substantially the same as it had been for the past nine years. The board by a vote of three to two conbeen for the past nine years. The board by a vote of three to two con-sidered it would be an injustice to the other cotton mills of Killingly to grant the Danielsonville Cotton company a reduction from the assessors' valuation reduction from the assessors valuation of $5 per spindle.

Relative to the Williamsville company, it is claimed that the amount of the present assessment on their/property was agreeable to and unopposed by them when the general revaluation of property was made in Killingly, about ten years ago, and, as applied to all cotton mills in Killingly, the tax paid under the present valuation of their properties is less than it was the woods. Act III.: The same as Act III.: The same as Act III.: The same as III.: T under the old high rate in force before the revaluation was made.

The millmen see the situation in a different light. Through their attorney the Williamsville company presented many facts and figures relative to their property to the members of the board of relief. It was stated in their behalf and particularly relative to the equipment of their plant that a great part of the machinery in use there has outlived the life in which it is generally considered that machinery retains any great part of its value. Mill machinery is generally regarded as serviceable for a period of twenty years, and in taking inventory it is the custom of manufacturers to charge off five per cent, annually for depreciation.

per cent. annually for depreciation Nearly all of the machinery in the mi Nearly all of the machinery in the mill of the Williamsville company has served its purpose for more than twenty years, and some of it has been in use for thirty-five years. It is surely less valuable, say those who represent the company, than it was only ten years ago, when the revaluation of the property was made. And yet the assessment remains the same.

Again, it is claimed by the company that dwellings in their village are in the list for rs much or very nearly what it cost to build them in 1827. Other buildings fifty years old are in the list at full cost value. These are some of the arguments that are presented in favor of the mill company receiving a reduction.

The history of the taxation of the Dentelsonville Cotton company under its present ownership is in part as follows: The present owners took over the property in 1839, agreeing that they

the property in 1839, agreeing that they would assume the mortgages amounting to $75,000 on receipt of the stock of the company of the same amount. As a bonus the present owners paid George P. Taylor $3,000.

George P. Taylor $3,000.

At that time the property was assessed for $60,000. The advancement of its assessed valuation since that time has been as follows: 1900, $122,000; 1901, $147,945; 1902, $147,945; 1903, $162,219 (ten per cented); 1904, $143,921; 1905, $145,921; 1906, $151,571; 1907, $151,571; 1908, $151,471; 1909, $202,000. Since taking possession of the property the company has built an addition and made generous repairs to the old tenement houses, bringing them up to what the company considers a normal condition. The mill has been repaired about the roof, power improved, cic., but not to an extent, they claim, to warrant an advancement proved, etc., but not to an extent, they claim, to warrant an advancement from $50,000 to $202,000 in their holdings in Killingly. It was stated Friday by a representative of the company that in the year that the company paid taxes on an assessment of a little more than $162,000 they gave an option for the property option for the purchase of the property to a concern that has since built a mill in an eastern Connecticut town for $107.000, or $55.000 less than the as-sessed valuation at that time. The option was in force three months.

Board of Revaluation Advocated. Affecting as it does the principal in-dustry of the town of Killingly, the matter of fixing the cotton mill valuations is an important one. The cor-porations mentioned are manifestly dissatisfied with the present assess-ments against them and the taking up of the suggestion of the board of re-lief that a board of revaluation be ap-rounted to pass on manufacturers' pointed to pass on manufacturers' property may be adopted to reach a mutually agreeable decision on the matter.

Bliven Trolley Harp a Great Success.

The Bliven trolley harp, owned by the Bliven trolley com-any the stock of which is held mainly in Putnam and Danielson, is being given a tryout on various trolley lines in Massa-chusetts Ethode Island and southeast-ern Connecticut. The harps are now in use on the Southbridge and Worcester, use on the Southbridge and Worcester, Springfield and other city lines in the Bay state, and on cars of the Rhode Island company in Providence, on the Norwich and Westerly and Groton and Stonington lines. Many words of appreciation have already been spoken as to the value of the device and the inventor, Percy Bliven of Danielson, and his associates in the company are much encouraged thereby. The invention is undoubtedly a sure success. yention is undoubtedly a sure success, measuring up in the service efficiency to the exacting standard of critical frolley experts who have had an opportunity to compare it with the old siyle harps with their many unsatisfactory qualities.
